

35-Hour Week Big Factor in Creating Jobs, Labor Holds

AFL-CIO to Ask Double Pay For Any Extra Time Worked

CHICAGO (AP)—Organized labor has revealed its primary weapon in the battle for full employment will be a national campaign for a 35-hour work week.

AFL-CIO President George Meany announced Monday a drive to require double-time pay for hours worked in excess of 35 a week. He termed the shorter work week "a national necessity."

The federation represents more than 14 million of the 65 million national work force.

The federation's Executive Council formulated a two-prong attack on the unemployment problem at the opening of its five-day summer session.

It established a committee to draft new legislation which will be presented to Congress next year. It set up a task force within the federation to aid affiliated unions in bargaining for the 35-hour work week without loss in pay.

Meany told a news conference the proposed double-time pay for keeping a man on the job beyond 35 hours is calculated to make it economically necessary for employers to enlist additional manpower.

"All other attempts to deal effectively with unemployment have failed," he said. "We feel a

Boy Crushed To Death by Tractor Wheel

Accident Occurred On Farm South Of Brothertown

CHILTON — A four-year-old rural Chilton boy was crushed to death by the wheel of a farm tractor shortly after 11 a.m. Monday.

Little David Ecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Ecker, route 3, Chilton, was the victim of the fatal farm accident, the second in five days for Calumet County.

According to Coroner Leroy Hughes, the accident occurred on the farm owned by the victim's grandfather, William Ecker, just south of Brothertown.

Hughes said while the boy's father and grandfather were working nearby, the boy climbed aboard a tractor which was parked and facing uphill on the incline to the barn entrance. A forage wagon was hitched to the rear of the tractor.

Disengaged Gear

The youth disengaged the shift lever, Hughes said, and the tractor and wagon began rolling slowly backward. Frightened, the boy shouted for his father, then jumped from the tractor. He was knocked to the ground and fell behind the rear wheel.

Ecker and the grandfather rushed the boy to Calumet Memorial Hospital, but he was pronounced dead on arrival at 11:25 a.m.

Hughes said the wagon wheels were crumpled so sharply that the tractor could not have rolled backward more than a few more inches.

Funeral services will be at 11:30 a.m. Thursday at Holy Trinity Church, Jericho, with burial in the parish cemetery.

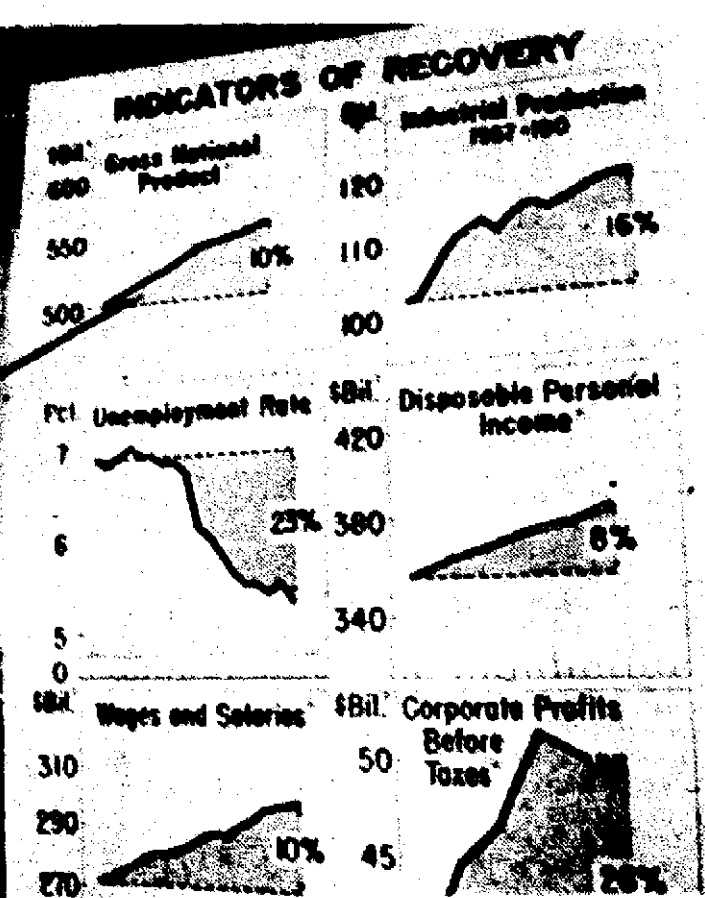

He was born Aug. 9, 1958.

Friends may call at the Pfeffer Funeral Home after 3 p.m. Wednesday. The youth is survived by his parents, a two-year-old brother, a five-month-old sister, and his paternal and maternal grandparents.

Kennedy Says Taxes to be Cut, System Revised in '63

from his office in discussing the nation's economy. He explained his reasons for deciding against a tax cut this year. (AP Wirephoto)

Prepared to Act at Once If Nation Should Show Trend Toward Recession

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, rejecting an immediate tax cut as an economic weapon that might boomerang, has set his sights on multibillion-dollar reductions and tax reform for 1963.

But he told a nationwide television-radio audience Monday night that if the unexpected happens—that if the nation slides toward recession later this year—he will call Congress into special session to lighten the "far too heavy" tax burden.

He described the present tax system as "a drag on economic recovery and economic growth, biting heavily into the purchasing power of every taxpayer and every consumer."

A number of Democrats in Congress applauded his speech. A number of Republicans accused him of playing election-year politics. They emphasized a favorite GOP theme that slashes in government spending should accompany tax reductions.

Byrd Asks About Spending

This theme was also stressed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. He said that when Kennedy submits his tax measure, and his budget, next year "he will have an opportunity to indicate whether he plans to reduce expenditures or pay for a tax cut with borrowed money."

Kennedy was serious of mind and unsmiling as, with the aid of specially prepared charts, he developed a two-fold thesis:

That the nation has bounced back a long way from the recession he said held sway when his term began in January, 1961.

That it still has a considerable distance to go to attain full employment and booming production. Compared to the economic growth

Senate Votes To Force End Of Filibuster

Decides, 63 to 27, To Limit Debate on Satellite Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today chiseled a page in history by voting a debate limitation to break the back of a filibuster against the administration's communications satellite bill.

The vote was 63 for cloture and 27 against.

Thus, for the first time in more than 35 years, the required two-thirds majority of those participating approved a bipartisan leadership motion to invoke the 45-year-old cloture rule. Under it each senator will be limited to a total of one hour's further talk.

Passage Indicated

The action forecast Senate passage—possibly late this week—of the measure to set up a privately-owned but government regulated corporation to launch and operate satellites in a global communications system. The House passed the bill May 3 by a 354-9 vote.

Liberal Democrats, fighting for government ownership, charged in time-consuming talk that the private corporation—to be half owned by communications firms and half by purchasers of its stock—would be dominated by AT&T. Backers of the bill disputed that contention.

President Kennedy, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other administration leaders had all called for passage of the bill in its present form.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois joined Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana in sponsoring the cloture motion.

Dirksen forecast passage of the bill this week, with no major amendments. He said he was informed only about 20 senators wanted to discuss it as much as one hour each.

Piled up on the Senate clerk's desk were about 185 amendments. But many of them were duplicates and Dirksen said he thought only about 25 actually might be offered.

Report They are Only Short Distance Apart in Orbits

Action Sought This Term on 6 Measures

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic leaders in Congress said today they intend to push the six bills President Kennedy emphasized in his economic report to the people.

The Senate leader, Mike Mansfield of Montana, told reporters: "The leadership intends to do its very best to see he does get those bills."

He said both Senate and House leaders are wholeheartedly in support of what he had to say.

The congressional chiefs had their usual Tuesday morning breakfast with Kennedy and went over the legislative calendar and outlook.

Jobless Benefits

On one measure Kennedy requested in his broadcast Monday night—the renewal of a temporary federal extension of unemployment compensation—House Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts said the House Ways and Means Committee will get busy this week. He said he hopes no public hearing will be necessary, and the bill can be approved this week or next for floor consideration.

McCormack said the bill to help colleges and universities, another item on Kennedy's list of measures "to speed up our economy," also was discussed with Kennedy.

He said the leadership hopes a satisfactory measure will be worked out in a Senate-House conference.

BY PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's space team was reported continuing its group flight around the earth late today.

Radio Moscow announced in a 5 p.m. news broadcast that the two newest Soviet astronauts—Col. Pavel (Golden Eagle) Popovich and the other two days—remained in orbit.

In a joint message, the two said: "We are but a short distance apart from each other and we have established dependable communications with each other."

Their message also asserted the outlined flight program will be carried out fully.

But there wasn't any official indication how long the program would last.

The report said both men feel fine and that their equipment is functioning perfectly.

The radio said that at 4 p.m. Maj. Andrian (Falcon) Nikolayev had completed 52 orbits and Lt. Col. Pavel (Golden Eagle) Popovich 36.

Moscow's central television station broadcast at 4:10 p.m. what it claimed was a direct television transmission from Vostok III, piloted by Nikolayev.

The announcer pointed to a portrait of the Vostok III and said that, through it, it was possible to see Vostok IV, carrying Lt. Col. Pavel (Golden Eagle) Popovich.

This would indicate the two space ships, launched a day apart on almost identical orbits, were still close together. Western trackers have said the two ships now are several hundred miles apart after being as close as 75 miles.

A good time for the landing supposedly would have been about 2:30 p.m., when Vostok III would have been over the central Volga valley where other globe-circling Soviet ships have come down.

Nikolayev completed his third day in orbit at 11:30 a.m. and Popovich finished his second day aloft at 11:02 a.m.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, announced that by noon Nikolayev Turn to Page 6, Col. 1

Projects for Public Works Sent to House

Fund Committee Votes $4.6 Billion For Numerous Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today approved legislation to provide $4,615,907,000 for public works throughout the country.

The total, including funds for a start on 49 new construction projects, is $674,951,920 above public works appropriations for the year that ended June 30, but $129,424,100 under President Kennedy's budget recommendations.

The committee recommended allocations to 459 projects and activities of the Corps of Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation. The allocations for the current year total $1,072,514,000 for the works which, when completed, will represent a federal investment of about $17 billion.

AEC Projects

The public works program under the Atomic Energy Commission accounted for $2,860,974,000, slightly under the budget estimate.

The committee said that an unexpended $19 million carryover of unobligated funds from the previous year had served as a

Patrol Begins Search for Man

ASHLAND (AP)—An intensive search for a Milwaukee businessman missing since he left Phillips July 19th in his own plane has been launched by the Civil Air Patrol.

The CAP had six planes in the air Monday night in hopes of finding Fred Fischer, 61, who had planned to take a two-week vacation in Solon Springs.

Fischer refused at Phillips, but never reached his announced destination, relatives said.

Col. Joseph Pozarski, division commander of the north central group of CAP, was named to supervise the search. Col. Pozarski said that 25 to 30 planes would be on the line Tuesday morning.

West Expects Reds to Protest Attack on Wall by Berliners

BERLIN (AP)—The Western powers expected strong Soviet protests and new threats today following West Berliners' attacks on the Red wall and Russian vehicles during the first anniversary of the barriade. Rioting crowds hurled paving blocks and curses Monday night at the barricade which was begun a year ago and now divides Berlin.

The angry demonstrators hurled stones and beer bottles, smashing the windows of a bus. Youths drenched youthful West Berliners closed in on two sedans shouting "pigs" and "dirty bums."

West Berlin police finally freed the Soviet vehicles.

Brig. Gen. Frederick O. Hartel, U.S. troop commander in Berlin, went to Checkpoint Charlie to investigate the attack.

West Berlin Police Commissioner Erich Duensing said about 2,000 West Berliners stoned men along the wall in the Bernauerstrasse area, three miles from the trouble near Checkpoint Charlie.

Rusk Denies Nation Using 'No Win' Idea

Objective Is Victory For Mankind

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—“We intend to win—and we are going to win. Our objective is victory for all mankind.” Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Monday night in reply to charges that the Kennedy administration is pursuing a “no win” foreign policy.

“The global strategy for freedom against Communist imperialism is our main business in the State Department,” Rusk told the 63rd annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

“This struggle will continue until freedom prevails. It goes without saying that our purpose is to win.”

Turmoil and Change

Rusk termed the present world one of turmoil and change and said the primary cause of danger to the United States “is the existence of powerful forces which are determined to destroy our free way of life.”

But the secretary said he found encouraging signs in the West’s fight. He cited improvements in Western Europe, economic and otherwise, and sharp differences which have developed within the Communist bloc.

Rusk called the Berlin wall, erected a year ago Monday, a monument to the failure of “competitive co-existence” that dared not compete.

In improving its own military position, Rusk said, this nation seeks to show its adversaries that any resort to force would be not only unprofitable but dangerous.

Referring to an improved capacity for dealing with guerrilla warfare, such as is now on in South Viet Nam, Rusk said: “It will not be allowed to succeed.”

At a news conference preceding his talk, Rusk praised the Russians for having succeeded in putting two cosmonauts into orbit. But he said he did not think the feat would have any influence at a bargaining table on vital world issues.

Moslems Fight New Fashions Of Teen-Agers

Chicago Daily News Service

CALCUTTA — Dacca, capital of East Pakistan, has declared war on teen-agers who are too scantily attired or whose clothes are too tightly revealing.

The trouble began in a fashionable market frequented by women. There two girls were chased by an angry crowd, and police had to make three determined charges to rescue them.

A couple of days later two girls walking down Jinnah Avenue in form-revealing attire were almost beaten up by an irate mob. They were released only on the promise that they would be more conventional in future.

Why the fuss? The girls consider themselves the object of jealousy — from women who must often wear ungainly dresses to please their conventional spouses, and from men who are attracted by their scanty clothing.

Pakistan is a Moslem state, where many women still wear veils and ankle length “burkhas” — tent-like robes.

Birch Support Made Political Issue

Democrats Told to Use Controversy in Local Races

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Democratic officeseekers attending the party’s first candidates’ school have been told to use the John Birch Society as an issue in local races if the situation justifies bringing it into the campaign.

The recommendation was made at Waukesha by Democratic State Chairman Patrick Lucey of Madison at a session for candidates in the 1st and 2nd districts. The meeting was the first of a series.

Lucey was asked by a candidate, “What should I do if un-Americanism charges come up?”

The chairman said it should be “ignored, unless there is evidence of real power.” Then he added:

Deeply Concerned

“Kuehn (Philip Kuehn) endorsed Republican candidate for governor is deeply concerned about the Birch matter. He can’t afford to be aggressive. If it is

West Germans May Trade Aid, Concessions

President Hints at Economic Moves in Anniversary Speech

Chicago Daily News Service

BERLIN — President Heinrich Lübke has implied strongly here that West Germany is prepared to trade financial assistance to East Germany’s Communist regime in return for concessions at the wall.

Lübke spoke Monday night by radio and TV on the first anniversary of the Communist coup of Aug. 13, which cut the city in half and ringed its Western sectors with armed guards, barbed wire and concrete.

As a first step, the president said, the East German officials must cease their use of force on the border and restore some measure of traffic between the East and Western parts of the city.

Long Term Credit

Earlier this year the East Germans suggested they would like a long term credit of some $700 million from West Germany to help their hard pressed economy.

When word of the suggestion became public, the East Germans denied they had made it.

West Germans initially were cool to the plan on the theory that financial aid to the Communist regime would make little difference to the East German people. The aid presumably would not be used for food or consumer goods but for East Germany’s industrial development.

The Americans, among others, have encouraged the Germans to explore the proposals more closely and this is now being done.

In the long run this probably is a more hopeful approach to the problems of this divided country than noisy demonstrations against the wall, of which there were several in Berlin Monday.

apparent that he still is willing to embrace the support of the Birchers, responsible elements will be reluctant to become involved.

“Check to see if the Birchers want to embrace your opponent, and if they do, use that information to the fullest.”

Kuehn said last Friday he rejected the support of the Birch Society, an ultra conservative organization, but would accept the backing of individual members.

The issue was raised when Dr. Theodore Taylor, a dentist who said he headed the Madison unit of the society, announced his personal support of Kuehn.

Kuehn, in a Milwaukee appearance Monday, accused Atty. Gen. John Reynolds, the Democratic candidate for governor, of promoting a tax program “which would favor out of state residents and discriminate against residents of Wisconsin.”

“Wisconsin is presently collecting about $10 million in taxes yearly from out of state residents,” Kuehn said. He added that Reynolds’ sales tax repeal position would “shift the burden to the working people of Wisconsin.”

Wilbur Renk, also campaigning for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, said Kuehn and Reynolds can not match his qualifications.

Speaking to supporters at Sparta, Renk said his nine years as a University of Wisconsin regent gave him “an insight into multi-million dollar budgets such as no other candidate has had,” and that his career as a farmer and seed dealer gave him a better understanding of agriculture and business in Wisconsin.

DiMaggio Quits Job to be Near Ex-Wife Marilyn

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Joe DiMaggio quit his $100,000-a-year job to be near his ex-wife Marilyn Monroe, says DiMaggio’s former employer.

V. H. Monette of Smithfield, Va., said Monday the one-time New York Yankee baseball star resigned Aug. 1 as a vice president of a company which supplies military post exchanges. DiMaggio reportedly was deeply worried about his ex-wife days before she died.

Two women close to the late actress have left Hollywood.

Marilyn’s housekeeper, Eunice Murray, who found her dead of an overdose of sleeping pills last Aug. 5, has checked out of her Santa Monica apartment. She left no forwarding address.

Oldest Peace Corps Member Not Excited About Journey

NEW YORK (AP)—The oldest Peace Corps volunteer leaves today to give a hand to a young republic.

Oscar Haugen, 69, flies out of Idlewild Airport bound for Tunisia with 39 other experts in the care and use of heavy road building equipment.

Was he excited about shopping up shop in Africa and getting into what is usually considered a young man’s game?

“No,” said Haugen. “I travel quite a bit.”

Picked up Stakes

In 1931, his wife, 3-month-old daughter and 4-year-old son died in a fire that burned their home by the ground. Only Haugen and a son, 8, survived.

Six years later the son was dead of a brain tumor after an accident.

Haugen picked up stakes and zers and other machinery.

Goldwater Lampooned By Circus Men

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—

Sen. Barry Goldwater watched himself being lampooned by the Circus Saints and Sinners, then came out four-square for the practice of poking fun at politicians.

“I don’t know what I’d do without the Kennedy boys,” the Arizona Republican said Monday night at a dinner of the Atlantic City chapter of the organization of circus men and big-top buffs.

Goldwater, as fall guy for the evening, was treated to a skit that pictured him as president of the United States—a job for which he is often mentioned as a candidate.

Goldwater demonstrated his own brand of political funpoking by drawing a bead on Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the President’s brother.

“You get an invitation to his house, it’s black tie and snorkel,” Goldwater said.

The actor portraying Goldwater said that he liked the White House very much “Jackie Kennedy did it all over in 18th century style. That’s right up my alley.”

49,000 at Children's Day

Things Double During State Fair Activities

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Some things were double at the Wisconsin State Fair Monday and other things came in flocks, such as sheep and freckles.

It was Children’s Day and an estimated 49,000 of them were admitted without charge up to 6 p.m.

And for the children there were such things as the freckle, twin, braids and crewcut contests and a number of special programs.

Freckle Champions

The girl freckle champion was Jeri Williams, 8, of Whitefish Bay. There was no count of how many she had on her pert face, but she had 73 on her right ear.

The most freckled boy was John Perdue, 11, also of Whitefish Bay.

‘Substantial Chance’ For More Sonic Booms Over Milwaukee Area

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is a “substantial chance” that relief from sonic booms over Milwaukee may be forthcoming in about two weeks, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Monday.

The booms have kicked off by B-58 bombers on training flights. The booms have resulted in more than 1,200 damage claims in Milwaukee and Madison in recent months.

Proxmire said the Air Force advised that the sonic boom matter is under review and that an announcement will be made soon.

“It is my distinct impression that there will be a substantial chance there may be relief for Milwaukee in the next couple of weeks,” the senator said.

Thai, Cambodian Units Clash in Border Fight

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—A communique said Thai and Cambodian forces clashed twice last weekend and accused Cambodia of “direct acts of aggression.”

The government said another exchange of fire, lasting about 40 minutes, took place Sunday, presumably in the same area. Some Thai police were wounded in both clashes, the communique added.

Soviet Precision in Launching Spacecraft Could Mean Trouble

U. S. 'Spy in Sky' Program May be Endangered by Feats

BY ELTON C. FAY

Schriever, chief of the Air Force Systems Command, said in emphasis in launching satellites—phasizing need for greater U.S. effort in space development that craft into matching orbits — if the Russians could achieve “a really significant breakthrough in “spy in the sky” systems.

These warning and surveillance satellite systems are still in the development stage.

A number of vehicles have been put into orbit during the past months, some of them presumably equipped with instruments for reporting data back to U.S. receiving stations. The systems are still a year or more away from being completely operational and useful.

Long Step

Over the weekend, the Soviet Union showed that she has achieved a long step leading eventually toward ability to intercept satellites — either for purposes of peaceful space exploration or for inspection and destruction.

The Soviet scientists succeeded, on the basis of their own reports and on data from other sources, in putting Vostok IV on the same plane and virtually within sight of Vostok III.

To do this, fantastic accuracy, in timing, rocket-engine burning control and computation had to be attained.

Second Internal

Scientists figure the Soviet launchers had an interval of less than 14 seconds to fire Vostok IV, during the 18th orbit of the first satellite, in order to put them both into the same track and in proximity.

There were reports in Washington that the precision was even better than announced initially by the Soviet Union, being virtually a perfect matching of plane, heights and time.

What this could mean to U.S. military officials is that the Soviets may be able to convert this demonstration into the practical application for knocking down American spy-in-the-sky satellites.

Deny Access

This possibility has been considered for some time and by top ranking officials.

Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert, discussed the impact of space programs on military strategy in an article in the current issue of the General junior heifer shown by Barbara Stauffacher of Darlington also was picked as a top ribbon winner.

Monday’s attendance was estimated at 94,486, compared with 106,504 on the same day last year. This year’s total did not include automobiles counted last year.

In a move to bolster sagging attendance at the grandstand, “Star Time” show, fair officials announced that all children under 13 attending the fair today would receive a free ticket to the program. The show drew only 3,340 persons Monday. A year ago attendance at the grandstand presentation was 12,268.

Yacht of Zenith Chief Towed to Shore After 12-Hour Lake Search

TWO RIVERS (AP)—The yacht of Joseph S. Wright, president of the Zenith Corp., was towed to port here Sunday morning ending a 12-hour Lake Michigan search by Coast Guard boats and planes.

A board the 33-foot sloop Pelago with Wright, of Kenilworth, Ill., were his wife, their daughter, Susan, 19, and Arthur Bell, 54, of Park Ridge, Ill.

The 51-year-old Wright said the boat’s engine failed during the night and explained that he was unable to make a scheduled ship-to-shore telephone call because the radio antenna had been broken by the yacht’s boom.

Attends Black Muslim Meetings To Investigate Negro Movement

Editors Note:

The Black Muslim movement is spearheaded by a Georgia-born Negro, Elijah Muhammad, who preaches black supremacy, hatred of the white man and separation of the races.

The Chicago Daily News assigned staff writer Ben Holman to probe the inner workings of the organization, to determine what impact it actually has made on American Negroes. Here is the first of a series to report his findings.

BY BEN HOLMAN
Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO — I was inside a closed meeting of the Black Muslims. No white person was allowed.

On the platform a speaker paced slowly as he lectured to an increasingly excited audience.

"We do not advocate violence," he said. "But that does not mean we are not going to defend ourselves."

The audience applauded with gusto, accompanying the applause with praises of "That's right," and "You said it!"

Don't Take It

"We don't believe in this business of turning the other cheek," the speaker went on.

"You mean, if I'm walking down the street and some one hits me in the face, I'm going to turn the other side of my face and tell him to hit me again?"

He pushed the side of his face toward the audience in an expression of disgust. The response with loud laughter.

I listened to this for more than two hours. It was my first visit to a Muslim temple.

Stopped at Door

I was posing as Nathaniel W. Parker, an unemployed Negro lured on an idle Sunday afternoon to Elijah Muhammad and his black supremacy movement.

Even with the protection of my brown skin, I was more than a little nervous when I first climbed the stone steps of Muhammad's Temple of Islam No. 2 on Chicago's south side.

My anxiety was eased somewhat when a tall, husky man greeted me just inside the door and asked courteously, "Is this your first time here?"

He explained that I would have to be "Examined." No one is allowed to carry inside the temple any cigarettes, matches, alcoholic beverage, weapon or anything that can be used as a weapon.

Frisked thoroughly

Another husky young man proceeded to give me the most efficient and thorough frisking I have ever experienced or seen.

Cleared, I was ushered from the lobby into the auditorium and led down the aisle. The place was a former synagogue that looked as if it had been recently redecorated.

The audience was segregated by sex—women in the center section and men in the left and right.

Uninitiated Member

In spite of the Black Muslim claims of rapid growth, I never found more than 10 or 15 persons in the uninitiated section in any of the many weeks I was to return to the temple.

The speaker (whom I later learned was Minister James, in charge of the Chicago Temple) directed much of his oration at Muhammad's lieutenants across the nation. He is a handsome, youngish-looking man who dresses in a conservative business suit.

He never uses a script. He does not need one. For I soon learned that his message is the same every evening.

Ridicule Christianity

Christianity is subjected to the most virulent ridicule.

"Do you believe that Christ rose from the dead?" asked Minister James.

Christianity, he explained, is the religion foisted on the so-called American Negro by the white man "to keep you in your place." Established Negro leaders, such as the Rev. Martin Luther King, are downgraded as "Uncle Toms."

Scorn White Man

The greatest scorn, woven throughout the lecture, is reserved for the white man.

"Have you ever been close enough to smell a white person?" was another of Minister James' questions. "Well, do you know how a dog smells?" was his own answer.

Initiation into the Black Muslims is a drawn-out procedure, gauged to weed out all but the very dedicated and determined.

It begins with an open declaration of interest at the end of a meeting when the minister calls forward all those who are ready "To return to the fold of your own kind."

Becoming Member

The day I "went forth," somewhat in the fashion of a convert at a revival meeting, I was received with a warm "Welcome to the flock, brother," from Minister James.

A young woman, one of the secretaries of the Chicago temple, gave us converts a letter of application. We were instructed by her to copy carefully the model handed us and mail it to the designated address.

The address was "Allah" and his address, 4847 S. Woodlawn Ave., the plush Hyde Park mansion of Elijah Muhammad.

In the letter, I asked Allah to give me my "original name." It was to be signed with Nathaniel W. Parker, my "slave name," given to my ancestors by the "white slave masters." After I became a member, I would drop the name "Parker" and be known as "Nathaniel X."

Gets Letter

Meanwhile, I was instructed to ask the secretary about my letter at the end of each meeting. Each time she would smile sympathetically. "Be patient, brother, it will take time."

Three or four weeks passed before she told me my letter had been received. It was laden with red-marked corrections.

I had made none of the errors in spelling that trip up most of the initiates. All my "errors" were in penmanship. On the back side of my letter was a note: "You must take your time in writing and be neater."

The secretary told me I'd have to submit the letter again, adding, "and be sure you copy it this time just like the model."

Letter Approved

Finally, my day arrived. I tried my best to feign joy as the secretary told me cheerfully as I made my customary end-of-the-meeting check with her.

"Congratulations, Brother Parker. I have good news for you. Your letter has been approved." Thus, Brother Nathaniel W. Parker was on his way to becoming Nathaniel X—an unwaveringly loyal believer in Elijah Muhammad, messenger of Allah—willing to die for him, if necessary, or any of my brothers who was mistreated by the hated "white devils."

Builders Begin Fight Against Layoff Claims

Hire Counsel to Battle Tradesmen On Compensation

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Building contractors have begun action to challenge the validity of hundreds of claims for unemployment compensation filed by building tradesmen laid off as a result of recent strikes of the Teamster Union locals in the Madison and Milwaukee markets.

A group of contractors has announced the employment of John Rouse, former member of the state industrial commission, to contest such claims. They will be heard at hearings to be held by the industrial commission, which administers the unemployment compensation law.

The unemployment of the other building trades employees resulted from the shut-off of materials which came when drivers employed by ready-mix concrete and hard construction material suppliers struck.

Hearings on the disputed claims have begun, and may last some time.

The claimants were advised by their union officials, who said they had legal advice backing them up, that they were entitled by law to job insurance benefits under their circumstances.

But Rouse has filed a firm denial of such a claim.

"Wisconsin's unemployment compensation act was never intended, in spirit or letter, to place the employer in the position of helping to finance a strike against himself. This he surely does when required to pay compensation to his employees laid off by reason of a strike in which they cooperate," he said in a statement to a contractors' information bulletin published here.

"Payment of compensation under these circumstances, he added, "tends unnecessarily to prolong a labor dispute and results in an increase of construction costs and other economic waste."

The unemployment benefits are paid from a state fund financed through payroll levies upon employers, by law.

The Russians are Still Ahead

The Russians made another great impact on the world over the weekend with their launching of two manned spaceships into identical orbits within one day of each other.

The United States has such projects on the drawing board, but again it has been made clear that we are considerably behind the Russians in developing the space equipment with which to accomplish the project.

Despite a certain veil of secrecy with which the Communists surround the launching, there no longer is any doubt about what they have accomplished. In fact the Russians have some built-in dramatic advantages in their launchings. They were able to keep this one entirely secret until they pulled it off. And we never know how many failures accompany their successes.

American scientists admit that this latest feat puts the Russians well ahead in the race to land astronauts on the moon. A rendezvous in space is a preliminary requirement for such a voyage. And while the Russians have not yet achieved an actual rendezvous the two astronauts are developing much valuable information on how to achieve it.

The Russian lead in space travel must be of serious concern to America. But it must not lead us to utter discouragement. All we can do is admit the facts of the matter and press ahead with our own space program as rapidly as is consistent with sound planning.

High School Reading

The current controversy at Eagle River over alleged attempts of a John Birch Society member to "pack" the shelves of the high school library with ultraconservative publications points up a problem in reading material. Just what sort of political publications should school libraries subscribe to? How far do the choices of publications reflect the political views of board members, administrators or the National Education Association?

At Eagle River the board chairman recommended that the library subscribe to the "National Review," "Human Events" and "American Opinion." All three are admittedly conservative but the similarity ends at that point. "National Review" is a usually responsible and well written publication published by William Buckley Jr. and containing book reviews as well as thoughtful articles about the state of the world. "Human Events" is sort of an expose of liberal finagling, particularly in Washington. "American Opinion" is an hysterical harangue which sees Reds under every hedgerow.

So much for the literary and political opinions of the board chairman at Eagle River. But the school principal's opinion doesn't sound much more enlightened. He has suggested that the "Saturday Review" might be added as a liberal publication but said there seemed to be no liberal publications for high school students. Certainly the liberal opinion of the Saturday Review's editor Norman Cousins seeps over into more than the lone editorial each week but the publication can hardly be considered a politically liberal publication. There are others, however, such as the "New Republic" or "Commonweal" which could be recommended.

High school students should definitely be exposed to political publications that have a responsible approach. The nonsense shown by ultraconservatives and ultraliberals alike is that they espouse anything that presents their point of view, however extreme or ridiculous. They are equally quick to condemn all opposing opinions as either John Birchy and therefore below contempt or full of "collectivist pro-Communist ideas."

A study of conservative and liberal publications would make a worthy project for a civics or American problems or problems of democracy high school class. But we suspect that teachers, administrators and board members in many communities would be in a wild-eyed three ring circus over the presentation, however well or objectively it was done.

Aid to Education

Rep. John Byrnes has presented another bill to Congress similar to one he submitted two weeks ago which would permit taxpayers to deduct part of health insurance payments from federal taxes. This latest proposal would permit parents who pay "tuition, fees and similar educational expenses" to deduct up to 20 per cent of them from their tax bills.

This proposal, like the other, would avoid the usual bureaucratic necessity of providing vague tax relief by sending back some of the money collected. It would avoid any threat of federal control of private or parochial schools. It would not take away any funds from local tax rolls which must support public elementary and secondary schools. Indirectly it would remove at least some of the alleged need for federal support of public schools.

One of the Republican declaration of principles drawn up by Republican leaders a few weeks ago was to provide "tax relief . . . to those who bear the burden of financing education for themselves and for others." In the light of the American tradition of financial support for the public schools this statement needs some modification or explanation. Traditionally—and wisely—the American public school system has been supported by all the taxpayers with no regard to the use the taxpayer makes of the public schools. By all means this tradition must be continued and upheld.

We believe deeply in the American public school system but we also feel that part of the success of the system depends, paradoxically, upon the success of private and parochial schools. More than one school system emphasizes something which many parents and educators seem to forget—that the education of children is first and foremost a parental responsibility and privilege and does not belong to the state.

Private schools also serve to keep public school personnel on their toes scholastically and both help to prod each other into educational experiments as well as logical defenses of courses and methods.

The increased cost of the operation and construction of all schools makes necessary some more equitable means of paying for schools if both the public and private are to thrive. At the college level Rep. Byrnes' proposal would help to take some of the pressure off the public colleges and universities and equalize the difference in tuition payments between public and private.

In the long run the proposal should help to strengthen local financing and control of the public schools as well as to enable parents of all economic levels to send their children to schools of their choice.

And the Byrnes' proposal is also sound tax policy. There is no doubt today that advanced education has a direct effect on an individual's earning power. Therefore the cost of an education is a logical deduction from income taxes.

The Alliance for Progress

When the Alliance For Progress was born a year ago it seemed to hold out real hope at last for the poverty stricken masses in Latin America held down through the centuries by dictators and the wealthy. The aim of the Alliance was to help the financially inept governments help their own people to achieve economic health through democratic processes.

It can't be said now that the Alliance has been a total failure; it's too soon to tell. But it has certainly not imbued the Latin Americans with an overwhelming desire to reform their outmoded governmental structures.

A glance at only a few of the nations reveals unrest, upheavals and chaos. Argentina had a military coup in March which has probably pushed the banned Peronista party into cooperation with the Far Left. Brazil is now being run by a compromise cabinet which never agrees. The Left in Venezuela appears to be as strong and vicious as ever. The Dominican Republic got rid of Trujillo and so far has successfully fought off the Communists but it is faltering economically. The recent military coup in Peru is the latest threat to democracy.

President Kennedy made it quite clear that the United States not only disapproved of the Peruvian coup but planned to apply what really amounts to economic, military and diplomatic sanctions. But instead of encouraging the able in Peru to refuse support to the dictatorship, the old charges of "intervention" are ringing out. Anti-Americanism is never hard to arouse in Latin America. Any demagogue who shouts it finds an eager audience and the Americans make ready scapegoats for the ills that harry the governments and the people.

The Peruvian foreign minister, having studied some remarks of neutralist countries in Asia, said that he hoped the United States "will not oblige us through unjustifiable economic sanctions to seek other solutions, such as new markets outside our traditional sphere." This threat was combined with a growing cooperation between the Far Left and the Far Right which engineered the latest coup. There never seems to be any difficulty for the Latin Americans to accept such cooperation, even including the Communists, as quite logical. In fact it is. The chaos and violence plays right into the hands of dictators whatever their alleged ideological molds.

The major trouble in many of the Latin American nations is that the haves are not yet ready to give up anything but a pittance to the have-nots. The habits of centuries encourage a few very rich and millions of very poor. So far the ruling classes have not recognized the necessity, not to mention the moral responsibility, of changing things. Until quite recently the church stood for acceptance of misery as it did in medieval Europe. The uneducated and the hungry are willing prey to the demagogues who promise bread and ballots.

In tying firm strings to our aid the Alliance for Progress has tried to make the Latin American regimes responsible for bringing their people out of the depths of poverty. But many of the regimes have resented the strings. They want the money but not the responsibility.

Nevertheless aid of the Alliance type is the only thing at present that the U. S. can do. There can be valid arguments against the practice of non-recognition of governments which do not follow our own path. But when the U. S. is giving aid, it can and it should demand qualifications and stick to them.

Federal Aid Bills Grow and Grow Because Congress Is Indifferent

From The Richmond, Va. News Leader

This is a melancholy story, if you please, and it cannot be told very briefly, but it contains a bitter moral for the American conservative who often asks aloud: Why do the States continue to decline in importance? How does the federal budget get so swollen?

Well, sirs, this is how:

Several months ago, Congressman Orin Harris of Arkansas introduced a bill to authorize a new handout of federal grants in aid. The object was to provide intensive vaccination programs for children under 5, to make them immune to polio, diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus.

In the course of time, on May 15 and 16, the bill came in for hearings in the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. The secretary of welfare testified in its favor. So did representatives of the American Public Health Association, the National Tuberculosis Association, the AFL-CIO, and the Association of State and Territorial Health Officers. There were no witnesses in opposition.

On June 18, the committee approved a slightly revised and tightened version of Mr. Harris' original bill. Only Congressman Peter H. Dominick of Colorado voted against it.

On Tuesday, June 26, the bill came to the floor of the House. This was the day after the Supreme Court's decision in the New York prayer case. No one was much interested in the vaccination bill. Only 62 of the 435 members of the House were on the floor; fewer than a dozen had anything to say. The bill passed by a voice vote. The following morning The Richmond Times-Dispatch gave the story five lines in its regular Washington Roundup on page 14; the News Leader carried nothing on it at all.

On July 3, the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare received the bill. No one had asked to be heard in opposition to it. Without public hearings, the bill was approved. Next week, with the committee's formal report, the measure will be in a position for passage on the floor.

Considered in the light of the total federal budget (which is the light that Liberals like to see by), the bill might appear insignificant. It authorizes the appropriation of $36 million over the next three years. This sum would be paid out by the U. S. Surgeon General in direct, non-matching grants to states or localities proposing to conduct in-intensive vaccination programs. The federal grants would be used for purchase of the vaccines, and for paying the salaries and expenses of additional state and local health personnel needed for "planning, organizational, and promotional activities in connection with such programs."

If the Senate goes along with the House, one more grant-in-aid will have been added to the more than 90 such programs now in operation; and we may be certain that once inaugurated, the grants for intensive vaccination programs will be perpetuated and expanded. This is the history of every other scheme for enlarging the role of the central government and contracting the role of the states.

Are these new grants reasonably related to any purpose within the constitutional reach of the Congress? Of course not. They are defended perfunctorily under the "general welfare" clause, and as an afterthought, under the power of Congress to provide for the national defense: Tetanus, said Mr. Harris, would be a likely aftermath of a bombing raid. Therefore, as an extension of powers relating to the national security, this is a constitutional plan.

Must new federal tax funds be specially channeled into the vaccination of some unknown number of children? There was to testimony to suggest that the states and localities have been doing a poor job in this field. On the contrary, it was conceded that the history of immunization programs under the sponsorship of the states and the national medical foundations is most encouraging. In 1960, roughly 1,702,000 deaths were reported in the United States from all causes; only 1,078 of these resulted from the four diseases combined. The death rate for diphtheria and whooping cough has been reduced to one per million population. In 1961, the total number of polio cases dropped to 829. There have been more than 500 cases of tetanus in the whole United States in only two of the past ten years.

If the constitutional basis for the bill is flimsy, and if the need for such legislation is almost nil, why is the program headed for enactment? Why would an additional outlay of even $36 million be authorized at a time when the federal government is running a deficit in the billions?

The answer lies first of all in the something-for-nothing sickness that afflicts so large a part of the country. It is dreamily supposed that "money from Washington" is free money — and it is so easy to get this money! A little pressure in the right place: a resolution of the state health officials' organization; a word from the White House; a statement from the secretary of welfare. . . . And when all the sentries who ought to be guarding state rights are sound asleep, the bill slides through with scarcely a word against it.

This is how it happens! This is how the federal government grows and grows, and reaches into local communities to do its good works and to dominate local finance. Organized groups ask for these programs, and acquiescent Congressmen go along, and the slow surrender of state responsibilities never even makes enough news to bother printing.

It would be a great day for sound government if the Senate would suddenly wake up to this little sleeper, and kill the bill altogether. (After all, two federal grant-in-aid programs already are in existence under which vaccines can be purchased; a third act would surely seem superfluous). We commend this

Sales Tax Refund Goes Unexplained

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Republican publicists have indignantly claimed that the Democratic party's candidates have deliberately ignored the fact that the sales tax proposals of the Republicans contain a significant exemption feature.

Whatever Wyngaard the merit of their challenge of the integrity of the Democratic allegations, it has become clear that the so-called credit refund feature of the Republican sales tax plan in the last legislature and the proposals of the major Republican candidates for office in the fall elections have been indifferently explained by much of the press and therefore insufficiently grasped by the electorate.

The credit refund is to the sales tax movement of this state what the withholding device was last year to those who insisted upward revision of the rates of the personal income tax.

It is a means to take the bite out of the levy, to make it more palatable. Significantly, however, it is also a means to make the sales levy less "regressive" since it is intended to exempt the first few thousands of each family's income from the exactions of the tax.

ly auditing for the state tax department.

The credit refund provision, on the other hand, could be simply tied in, with the enforcement of the existing income tax revisions.

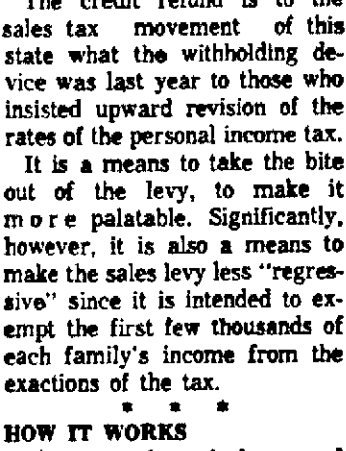

INCOME TAX MESS

Thus the head of the family unit of five could claim five $12 credits, or $60, as a deduction from his annual income tax return.

Because the income tax law also provides for personal exemptions, and for other deductions as for medical costs and similar necessities, the low rate wage earner in a family might have no income tax liability whatever at the end of the year, and might conceivably be able to claim a refund. The refund would be paid if his sales tax credit exceeded his ordinary income tax liability.

Perhaps the difficulty with such an arrangement is that it appears complicated to the taxpayer, and that the explanations tend to be lengthy and therefore have not been widely understood.

Yet this detail is an important footnote to the sales tax debate. It is intended to ameliorate the effect of a sales tax on the very low earners of the community, contrary to some public intimations during the current campaign. It also is evident that the credit refund device would be flexible. It could be higher. It could be lower, according to the demands for public services and the growth of the economy.

The Human Element Still A Problem

From The Salt Lake Tribune

The day of the true thinking machine has not yet arrived although spectacular progress continues to be made. Computers can do no more than they are told. Human beings remain in control — and when a human error occurs, the computer errs too.

The point is emphasized by the discovery that the omission of a mere hyphen in instructions to a computer caused the failure of the Venus space shot.

It was the old story of the kingdom being lost for the want of a horseshoe nail.

Scientists foresee the day when machine intelligence will be reduced. Computers may be perfected that will store experience as well as information. Then, when confronted with a problem, such machines would choose their own way of solving it.

Man has learned how to do things faster and easier without correcting the faults inherent in his own nature. If the machine should turn into a Frankenstein monster, blame the builder not the machine.

Looking Backward

Soldiers' Aid Society Formed

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Aug. 14, 1962.

Agreeable to the resolution adopted at the War Meeting on Monday evening, the ladies of Appleton met at the College Chapel on Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of organizing a Soldiers' Aid Society.

President Russell Mason of Lawrence University stated the object of the meeting, and after a few remarks by the Rev. Mr. Doe, the Society was organized.

Mrs. R. Z. Mason was elected president, Miss Snow, vice president, Mrs. Williams, secretary, and Mrs. L. Edgerton, assistant secretary.

The names of a large number of ladies present were enrolled as members of the Society.

A committee consisting of two ladies from each Ward was appointed to visit the families of soldiers and to report cases of need among such families to the President. A subscription paper was placed in the hands of the Secretary for the purpose of securing funds for the object of the Society.

Meetings of the Society are to be held on Thursday of each week, between 2½ and 5 o'clock.

In charge of the Ladies Day at Ridgeway Golf Club were Mrs. Walter Finch, Oshkosh, Mrs. Ira Clough and Mrs. Russell Bartley, Neenah.

Installed as officers of the Germania Ladies Auxiliary in Menasha were Mrs. Ann Lickert, Mrs. Pearl Parker, and Mrs. Esther Rhodes.

Charles Widestten, Appleton, was the speaker at the Appleton Camera Club.

of the American Legion in Hortonville.

Those on the entertainment committee for the proposed picnic sponsored by the Christian Fellowship Club of St. John Lutheran Church, Marion, were Marvin Hintz, Jim Beyer, Melvin Schroeder and Vivian Lehman. Members of the serving committee were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Fischer and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mielke.

Eugene and David DeGroot, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Francis DeGroot, Arthur St., Kaukauna, won cash awards in a weekend amateur contest held in conjunction with the harvest festival in Dale.

Robert Larson, Mrs. Lois Siegrist and Mrs. Herbert Schoen, Chilton, were in charge of arrangements for the Chilton chapter of Masons and Eastern Star picnic held at the civic park in Hubert.

Chic Joins Practicality In Designs

Does the American woman demand something different from her worldly sisters in fashion design? Ann Fleischer, the world's leading couturiere of hand-woven ribbon designs, says they do.

When she came to this country from Vienna 21 years ago, she was impressed with the beauty and grace of the American woman. She wanted to adapt her talent for designing elegant knitwear.

So she made a study of the American figure, not only to enhance it, but for practical aspects. "I wanted to create clothes that would combine chic with practicability," she said. And she has done so.

"Each new fashion carries with it a background of study in wearing ability, in stresses and in strains that are given costumes worn by the American woman," she reported.

Guided by the busy life American women lead, fashion trends and climate, Mrs. Fleischer makes many costumes that are suitable from daytime through dinner and into evening. Her newest hand-woven coat that makes a costume with its complementary ribbon knit dress can travel all over the world and be fresh and ready to wear right out of the suitcase.

The tailored handknit ribbon dresses come in sizes up to 40. She also makes custom-order costumes, sport shirts and ribbon-knit ties for men.

Mrs. Fleischer takes care in selecting and developing ribbons and colors. Often a year or more of experimentation goes into the new textures she uses.

Keith French Weds Miss Henschel

FREMONT — The marriage of Miss Maria Henschel and Keith French, Weyauwega, took place at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church. The Rev. H. Paul Westmeyer performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Escorted to the altar by her grandfather, Arthur Henschel, Mrs. Edgar Henschel and the late Mr. Henschel. Mr. and Mrs. Glen French, Pembine, are the parents of the bridegroom. The bride was attended by Miss Ruth Schumacher, Appleton, as maid of honor. Miss Joan French, Milwaukee, a cousin of the bridegroom was bridesmaid. The bride's cousin, Miss Ann Stroschien, New London, acted as flower girl.

The bride's brother, David Henschel, served the bridegroom as best man. Charles Anderson, Green Bay, was groomsmen. James Thews, the bride's cousin, and Fred Aegerter shared ushering duties. Ring bearer was Daniel Kramer, a cousin of the bride. A buffet supper was served in the church hall. The home of the bride's parents was the setting for an evening reception.

The couple will reside at Weyauwega where Mr. French is football coach and teacher at Weyauwega Union High School.

The bride was graduated from Washington High School, New London, and attended Wisconsin State College, Oshkosh. She is employed at Aid Association for Lutherans, Appleton. Her husband, an alumnus of Pembine High School, was also graduated from Wisconsin State College, LaCrosse.

Family Reunion Held at Shawano

SHAWANO — The Kreklow family held its third annual reunion Aug. 4 at the home of Mrs. Marie Kreklow. About 40 family members attended the potluck dinner and supper.

Those planning the event were Mrs. Arthur Kreklow, Clintonville, Mrs. Patrick Couillard, Kimberly, and Mrs. Michael Kreklow, Shawano.

Mrs. Marie Kreklow, 81, was the oldest member present. The youngest was Delores Kreklow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kreklow.

Next year's reunion will be Aug. 4 at the same place.

Dorm Decor Requires Planning

One of the most exciting experiences in any young person's life is going away to school, even if the campus is only 50 miles distant. During a student's first year, however, the initial excitement may gradually give way to longing for the familiar atmosphere of home. This is where dorm decor comes in.

Considering that the average student spends nearly as many waking as sleeping hours within an assigned four walls, it's important to make a dormitory room as homelike as possible.

Efficiently designed and adequately equipped as they are, the majority of dormitory rooms still lack warmth and individuality.

Personalize the Room
Personalizing a college study-bedroom needn't involve great expense, but it does take ingenuity. Space is usually limited though.

Favorite accessories will be used from year to year, provided they are cleanable and packable for summer storage. New deep-dimensional simulated wood wall plaques that closely resemble hand carving meet both these requirements.

In a practical vein, there are also carved-look book ends to help keep study tables in order.

Travel posters, available at no cost from many travel agencies, add color and cosmopolitan flavor. A framed world map would be both decorative and useful. For textural interest, combine a length of color fish netting with seashells and driftwood.

Check Decorations

In planning dorm decor, be sure to check regulations on hanging pictures and such. Some schools fine students for driving nails or picture hooks into walls. To avoid possible problems, address an inquiry to the college or university housing office.

Don't overdo advance planning. Leave room on the walls, and in that student budget, for a few additions after the semester gets underway. A Saturday afternoon spent shopping for pennants or a bulletin board is part of the fun of being away at school.

Jens Family Holds Reunion

The Jens family held its 21st reunion Sunday at Rock Ledge Park, Seymour. A potluck dinner was served to the 73 family members and guests.

Fred Jens, Appleton, was the oldest member present and Allen Robert Timm, Appleton, was the youngest.

Mrs. Arthur Peeters and Fred Van Dyke, both of Appleton, were named officers for the next reunion to be held Aug. 11, 1963, at the Rock Ledge Park.

Skin Conditioning

It takes time to get your skin into soft, smooth condition before the bathing suit season. This requires daily care—extra rubbing with a body brush, and lots of massage with thick warm soapsuds.

My correspondent encloses a hand to explain his outburst. He was North, the dummy, and we have to agree that he was down-trodden in this case.

South won the first trick with the king of diamonds, and drew trumps in three rounds, ending in the dummy with the ace. He then led the jack of hearts from dummy and wondered how to finesse when East played the nine of hearts.

As it turned out, South was wasting his time. West was bound to take his two heart tricks. East's signal indicated that he had four hearts (a high-low is used to show an even number of cards in a suit), so that West could count the suit accurately.

Gets Out Safely
West got out safely with a diamond after taking the two high hearts. Now South had to lose two club tricks, the contract and his partner's esteem.

South went wrong when he drew three rounds of trumps. After drawing one round of trumps with the king, declarer should switch to the king of hearts. There is no need to draw trumps in a hurry, and there is no need to take a heart finesse.

Suppose West takes the ace of hearts and returns a trump. South wins in his own hand and leads another heart to the queen. No matter what is returned, South can get to dummy with the ace of trumps to take discards on the good hearts.

There is only one remedy for problems of this kind. Get up a petition to your Congressman to abolish finesses, or better still partners. There should be no

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Beauty on a Budget

How much money a teen has to spend on clothes is less vital than how she spends what she has. Girls on a modest allowance often dress better than their more affluent friends.

With limited funds, you cannot afford mistakes. So you make a point of the becoming, coordinated clothes that mark a grade A wardrobe, be it large or small. Whatever your allowance, trouble in getting millions of signatures.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes. You hold S A 6 5 H J 10 6 3 2 D 9 6 C J 4 3. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one heart. You have only 6 points in high cards, but this is enough for a response. Just show your suit, as long as you can do so without raising the level of bidding.

(Copyright, 1962)

need. And please note 'needs' does not mean what you would like to own, but what you cannot do without.

Next figure the price you can afford to pay for every item listed. To do it accurately break down your total budget into these percentages:

Allow 30% for a coat, when buying one. Coats should serve several years. Allow 20% for a suit, but try not to buy it in the same period as a coat. Allow 10% for a date or party dress, 5% for a sweater and blouse, 10% for a skirt, shorts, and jacket; 25% for accessories and lingerie. Figuring that way leaves a margin of 20% to 30% for other necessities, such as a storm coat, and for such frivolities as a new formal. Better stuck with that budget!

(Copyright 1962)

Pick Peaches Carefully for Preserving

When buying peaches don't let the blush color fool you. The pink blush of a peach is a clue to the variety not to the ripeness of the peach.

Choose peaches by the background color of the peach. A creamy or yellowish background color tells you that the peach was picked with some maturity and it will continue to ripen. A dark green background color indicates that the peach wasn't mature, and it may not ripen satisfactorily. Instead it may shrivel and lack color as well as flavor.

Pass up overripe and bruised peaches too. Unless they are at a premium price you may find them really an expensive and wasteful purchase.

The size of peach may be important to you. On boxes and bushels, a minimum diameter size is listed. Or the boxes may list number of peaches in the container. Medium peach comes about 50 to 60 in a box. The larger the number the smaller the peach.

For pickling, the cling stones are probably best while freestone peaches are easy to prepare for canning and freezing. Their flavor is especially good. The peach crop isn't up to last year's abundance but it's still about 10 per cent above average.

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Meller, D.V.M.

Q. My year old Beagle had very clean white teeth. She has had nothing unusual to eat except coffee. Can this cause her teeth to become yellow? Susan Miska, Hillsdale, N.J.

A. I wouldn't blame the coffee for turning her teeth yellow. If you're sure she isn't sneaking out behind the garage to smoke cigarettes, I'd suspect that the yellowing was caused by the general growth of bacteria on the surface of her teeth. This is particularly evident when dogs are fed a lot of cooked and prepared foods. While we don't advocate brushing a dog's teeth after every meal, more and more people are realizing the importance of keeping dog's teeth clean to prevent foul mouth odors. So, either have your veterinarian clean her teeth or you can brush them with a regular tooth brush dipped in a mild peroxide solution.

Your Problems

Ann Gives Man a High-Ho Silver and a Please Go Away

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll come right to the point. I'm looking for a wife. First I'll tell you what I have to offer then I'll tell you what I want.

I'm 44, a graduate engineer, University of Colorado, physically active, 5' 10", weight 160. I have a good income and can live comfortably till the end of my days.

I'm looking for an old-fashioned girl who likes mountain life—not just for a weekend, but all year round. She'll have to put up with some mighty cold weather, but she'll have clean, fresh air to breathe, and before her eyes at all times will be the most magnificent scenery in the world.

I want a woman who likes wild fruit and berries and would be willing to pick and prepare them. She'll have to clean fish and rabbits and wild birds. She should like swimming, but remember, a mountain stream is not a heated pool. She'll have to handle a canoe, too.

I can't live in the city because of sinus trouble, so don't put me in touch with a woman who thinks she can talk me into it. I ought to tell you I've been married and divorced twice. Neither one of my ex-wives could take the cold weather. Thank you. — Grand Lake Colorado

DEAR GRAND: You're not looking for a wife—you want Tomo, and the Lone Ranger already has him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother makes her home with us and we all love her. Her presence has made it possible for me to do many things which otherwise would be out of the question.

For the past several years mother has come along with us on our vacation. My husband was not happy about the arrangement but he said nothing. Last summer she decided to visit her brother so my husband and I and the children took a cross-country trip without her. He let me know it was the grandest vacation ever. I got the hint, but made no point of it.

This year he attempted to talk my mother into going to visit her

DOWNTOWN APPLETON

Young at heart and happy to return to campus. That's the mood for fall suits for teens. Just as active, just as bright as the wearers, suits are designed for carefree, active student activities and to meet all the smart fashion requirements of the well dressed teen. At left is the all-round suit choice for the girl who treasures the simple cardigan lines. The classic wool is in a bright heather plaid with a lined straight skirt and jewel neckline jacket. Below, an easy-spread skirt is topped by the newly-revived pea jacket. The jacket has two slash pockets that break full to the hip. The skirt is belted with a two-inch marshmallow belt.

Shirt yourself for classed in this all-wool flannel sport dress, with mandarin collar and elbow length sleeves. The thin tab leather belt cinches the waist. Bright buttons decorate the front; side slits in the hem insure mobility. Here is a back-to-school standout in the classic Ivy tradition.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

BACHELOR'S BOO BOO
I was a little "shook up" when a bachelor friend of mine, who comes from a good family, introduced us to the girl he was with then: "I want you to meet my lady friend." What is this supposed to indicate—that they are engaged? Or just "going steady"? And can it possibly be correct?
Louise Davis Answers:
The remark "lady friend" was incorrect and stupid. He considered it drop without comment. Your ed the girl a lady and a friend or he wouldn't have been introducing her to his friends. If he had been trying to be facetious, he chose a strange time and way. Perhaps he was trying to imply that he hoped the girl would some day be his wife. Even so, he made a boo boo. At least you can be sure he was telling you that they were "going steady," and for a man of good family he should have known better.

MOVIE-ARMED FRIEND
A wealthy friend, when complimented on anything she possesses, promptly tells how much it cost. She has had money all her life, so I can't understand why she does this, and it embarrasses me, as it does all her other friends. What can we do about it?
Louise Davis Answers:
I don't see how you can do anything except to let the subject

Doctor Advises Mothers Not to Compare Babies

BY MARY CAMPBELL
NEW YORK (AP) — Your neighbor's baby walks and talks. But yours, just about the same age, doesn't even crawl and hasn't said a word even a mother can understand.
What should you do?
"The best thing," says pediatrician Dr. Thurman B. Givan, "is to relax."
"I always say there are three kinds of babies born, all within the category of normal. There are the on-the-go jumpy little rascals—you can almost tell them in the nursery; there are the lazy babies—they put on weight easily and start the world roll off their shoulders; and there are the average normals."
Average Follow Schedule
"The average age for a baby to stand up is 7 to 8 months. Then they soon start crawling—though some never crawl. And the average baby will walk at about a year."
"But the jumpy baby is going to start all this sooner than the lazy one."
Dr. Givan, who practices in Brooklyn and teaches at the State University of New York's Downstate Medical Center, says that seamed dress, its neckline squared fore and aft, defines the figure in no uncertain terms. To bring its softly crushed waist higher across the front. This pretty detail dramatizes the flattering skirt drapery that slants in from gently flared side panels. Suggested fabrics are sheer wool, plain or printed silk or rayon crepe, faille, shantung, linen or novelty cottons. From these corresponding body measurements select the size best for you. Our sizing is comparable to that used for better ready-to-wear.
Size 12 requires 2 yds. of 54" fabric for dress and jacket. To order Pattern No. NS-292, state size, send $1.50. Add 25 cents for first class mail and special handling. talk because they don't have to. People are giving them everything they want. In a large family they're apt to talk early. They mimic each other and they have to talk to get things.
Don't Be Over Anxious
"A parent shouldn't be over-anxious. If anything is wrong with a baby, the doctor will know. If he's mentally deficient, the doctor usually can tell it within the first six months."
The pediatrician admonishes that the baby who talks early may—or may not—turn out to be the brightest student in school. He may—or may not—be the happiest, best adjusted baby in the block.
When you find yourself worrying about your child who hasn't started to talk, and saying, "Say dada, say mama," then, Dr. Givan says:
"Take a piece of adhesive plaster. Put it over your mouth. And relax."
Pick Appleton Lawyer For State Committee
An Appleton attorney, F. Joseph Sensenbrenner, has been appointed to an indefinite term as a member of a state committee which will study unauthorized practices of law. The committee is to report to the Wisconsin State Bar Association.
Sensenbrenner said the committee will meet Friday to discuss its proposed study. The committee plans an investigation into unknown what all of them are. But authorized persons charging fees for legal services.

New U. W. Laboratory Studies Deformities

Birth Defects Center Tries to Find Causes of Congenital Abnormalities

A child is born deformed. Why? The newly established Birth Defects Clinical Study Center at the University of Wisconsin Medical Center is trying to find out.

Under direction of Dr. David W. Smith, assistant professor of pediatrics, the center's associates are searching for causes of congenital abnormalities or birth defects, in the hope of someday preventing them.

"Our studies should help us advise the parents of some affected children," Dr. Smith believes. All too often, the birth of a malformed child results in psychologically disturbed parents who fear they were responsible for the child's defects.

Many such parents needlessly refrain from having more children, for some congenital abnormalities are not inherited, the director explains.

"Many of us," he notes, "have at least one or two birth defects." They are usually so minor, like a birth mark or mole, that the defects are not even noticed. One out of every 16 babies, however, is born with more obvious malformations. These can range from an easily repaired malformed ear to serious multiple defects of the brain, limbs, and internal organs.

According to Dr. Smith, congenital abnormalities can be traced to any one of many causes. Some are genetic in origin, due to a change, or mutation, in the parent's genetic material that is inherited by the child.

Others, however, can be completely accidental and have no hereditary significance. They may result from a genetic mishap where the child receives an abnormal number of chromosomes. Located in the nucleus of the cell, chromosomes house the genetic material which carries hereditary information.

Still other non-inherited defects may be traced to medications taken by the pregnant mother, or to a German measles infection during early pregnancy.

Since the possible causes of birth defects touch so many different areas, scientists from several UW departments contribute to the center's research. The clinical phase of the program is supported by a recent $6,400 grant from the National Foundation-March of Dimes.

Which subjects to study and how to study them is Dr. Smith's main problem. He looks for similar patterns of abnormalities among deformed babies at the University Children's Hospital, state institutions for the mentally retarded, and the Pediatrics Outpatient Clinic.

Study Chromosomes
"Similar defect patterns," Dr. Smith states, "may reflect similar causes." Through further tests and studies, an accurate diagnosis may be made and parental counseling given, he continues.

One such study involves the chromosome patterns found in the child. Stanley Inhorn, assistant director of the State Laboratory of Hygiene, prepares cell cultures for chromosome studies done by Prof. Klaus Paton and Ewa Therman, of the medical genetics and pathology departments.

A few birth defects are now known to be associated with abnormal chromosome patterns, such as the presence of an extra chromosome or fusion of a part of one chromosome onto another. Recently, the UW research group discovered that two types of abnormalities involving multiple physical defects result from the presence of an extra chromosome.

Times Studied
What can be learned from the tissues of affected children? Robert DeMars, assistant professor of medical genetics, examines tissue cultures for chemical mistakes.

Pediatrics Prof. Harry A. Waisman and his associates assist in bio-chemical studies of the patients themselves.

"Minor birth defects," Smith explains, "may be clues to what has gone wrong during embryonic development," that is, before the baby is born. A study of minor abnormalities among the newborn at St. Mary Hospital, Madison, has been conducted by Dr. Philip Marden, intern at the University Children's Hospital.

When a baby is suspected of having an inherited defect, studies of his family tree, or pedigree, are made. Such studies as well as laboratory tests help Dr. John Opitz, of the pediatrics and medical genetics departments, and the other doctors give genetic counseling to the baby's parents.

Diagnose Defect
A combination of these tests and clinical observations should lead to a better understanding of birth defects and possibly of their causes, Dr. Smith believes.

"At least," the director states, "if we can properly diagnose a given defect, we can predict the affected child's future development and treat him accordingly."

He explains that some babies will die within a few months anyway, so it is best to leave them alone. Others, however, may be able to lead relatively normal lives if they receive appropriate care as infants.

The Madison center is the fifth of its kind in the nation, aided by March of Dimes funds.

Vandals Hit Another Used Car Lot in Central Appleton

Cloud Buick Lights Torn Down
35 Minutes After Police Pass

BY RAY PY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Vandals continued their work on city used car lots early this morning when they tore down two strands of lights containing several hundred light bulbs and knocked over two light poles at the Cloud Buick Used Car lot, 200 N. Oneida St.

Police estimate the damage was done about 2:30 a. m., about 35 minutes after a patrolman visited the lot and reported everything was all right. A radio operator in a nearby cab stand told police he heard noises coming from the lot across from city hall at about 2:30 a. m. The lot is north of the cab stand and across the street.

The vandals pulled two large metal poles over, one striking the rear of a 1961 model car, damaging it. There was no other damage done to the lot, said Dan Cloud, owner of the lot said this morning. Cloud came to the lot about 3 a. m. to turn off the electricity after police reported the damage to him.

Light Strands Unlighted

Cloud said the lights in the strands were unlighted, but the used car lot was illuminated by a large flood lamp near the center of the lot. Cloud said the vandals would have been easily seen and identified if anyone had passed the lot at the time because one of the damaged poles was near the flood lamp.

Each of the poles was about 16 feet high and Cloud said the vandals must have tied a rope to the top of the poles and pulled them over.

More Police?

Police Chief Earl O. Wolff said today the police department's patrolmen were doing an adequate job in patrolling their beats "as far as he knew," but he added the department will have to seriously consider placing more supervisors in the field.

Wolff said "it is highly possible" that some of the policemen on the beat "were not covering their beat in a proper manner" but the situation can only be corrected by using supervising sergeants who would directly control the activities of the men on the beats.

Under the present situation, the beat patrolmen are under the supervision of one of two duty captains. Sergeants on duty at the station are not allowed to leave the station during their shifts. The captains cannot give personal attention to each beat patrolman's activities, Wolff said.

Wolff said he desired to have the department staffed by sergeants who will operate as a "sergeant of the guard."

Youths Who Slandered Police Taken Home

LITTLE CHUTE — Four teenagers involved in vandalism, who taunted the village police chief by leaving slanderous messages on the police station's automatic telephone recording device were turned over to their parents Monday for disciplinary action.

Police Chief Robert Nechodom said an agreement with the parents has been made and the youths will report weekly to the police station. The youths will also be required to pay for all damages done.

The four were questioned by Nechodom after he investigated a raft being constructed on the Fox River by the youths. He suspected it was made from wood taken from the village dog pound.

Nechodom found, instead of a

Dedication ceremonies for the library will be Thursday, Aug. 30. It will be known as the Joseph M. Conway Memorial Library.

The library contains approximately 50,000 volumes, with the new stacks having a capacity of up to 75,000 volumes.

Conway was former president of the Charmin Paper Products in Green Bay. He was a member of the original St. Norbert College Board of Governors, and served with that group from the time of his appointment in 1939 until his death last year.

Grand Chute Ups Value Sharply to $13,841,987 Total

9.45 Per Cent Increase Could Mean $42 Rate for '62-'63 Levy

Assessed valuation in 1962 of the Town of Grand Chute rose by about 9.45 per cent for 1962.

Figures released today by John R. Stevens, town assessor, show an assessed valuation of $13,841,987.

The increase is $1,308,064 higher than the 1961 figures of $12,532,923.

Town chairman Arthur Lecker estimated today the 1962 tax rate would be between $40 and $42. A $42 tax rate would produce about $580,000 in revenue for 1962 operating costs. This is a generalization based on the same tax rate for all town residents. Realistically the tax rate varies in the town in value, from $38.576 in 1961 to for each of about 11 areas depending upon school districts residents live in.

On the other hand manufacturers' stock for 1962 was assessed at slightly less than half the figure for the previous year. Manufacturers' stock was $122,717 in 1961 compared to $71,052 for this year, a drop of $51,665.

Other personal property assessments for 1962 include $290,961 in machinery, tools and patterns, $255,461 in furniture, fixtures and equipment and $21,100 in all other personal property categories.

Record High

The town's operating costs for 1961 hit a record high of $489,202.

Total real estate on the 1962 assessment roll is $12,340,365 while personal property was assessed at $1,023,900.

Real estate values are $1,051,440 higher than the 1961 figure of $11,288,920, a 9.31 per cent increase.

Residential land and improvements are $7,027,175, an increase of $639,700. Land assessments are $1,227,125, while improvements stand at $5,800,050.

Mercantile Up

Mercantile real estate was assessed at $2,114,100. The 1962 figure is an increase of $389,200 over 1961's assessment of $1,724,900.

Assessed valuation of manufacturing properties showed a drop of $500. 1962's figure for manufacturing land and improvements is $474,600.

Agricultural values are $14,850 higher for 1962. Agricultural real estate was assessed at $2,673,900 this year.

Marshland was assessed at $46,000.

School Board Denies Request for Ice Rink At Edison This Winter

The Appleton Board of Education Monday denied for one year the request of the Recreation Commission for permission to use Edison School area for an ice rink this winter.

The board accepted the advice of director of business affairs William Knuth that the recent seeding of the area in question made it undesirable to use as a rink because the turf would be damaged.

However, the board agreed that after the lawn is well established next year, the recreation commission would again be given permission to use the area as an ice rink.

A final decision on the field was deferred Monday until the bids are received. Grading costs, which would be the major expense, are estimated at $5,000 to $6,000.

Original plans were to locate the field on the west end of the 12-acre site. The school building probably will be placed on a high area on the east end of the site.

Grading the entire site, which will have to be done eventually to correspond with the street elevations, will cost an estimated $5,000 to $6,000, according to Director of Business Affairs William R. Knuth. Other costs for the practice field—about $200 for water facilities and $200 for seed and fertilizer—would be the same in either location. Labor would be provided by the school maintenance field.

Railroad Ups Price Of Controversial Site

The Chicago and North Western Railroad has upped its asking price for a piece of controversial downtown property offered to the city of Appleton and has canceled its offer to sell the abandoned passenger depot.

Newest price for the property south of the main track to the North Street right-of-way between Superior and Oneida streets is $65,000. In February the property was offered for $43,500, and in September, 1960, it was offered at $68,500. Both previous offers included the railroad depot.

The latest offer also does not include 25 feet of property between Superior and Appleton streets, and 25 feet to a point where North Street turns directly east between Appleton and Oneida streets.

City Owns It

After the railroad, which is offering the property through an Appleton real estate dealer, made its second offer in February, a board dividing the assets and liabilities of the district authorized the property to be owned by the city already owned the street right of way.

Ald. George Buckley and attorney Karl P. Baldwin started a citizen's suit against the railroad in which they claimed the city owned the property because of a public use for over a 20 year period.

Board Okays Auctioning Old Building

The Appleton Board of Education Monday approved a public auction to dispose of the Speel School building and contents.

The Speel District was split among Kimberly, Kaukauna, Wrightstown and Appleton this summer through attachments. A small portion of the district, including the building, was attached to Appleton July 1.

An apportionment board which divided the assets and liabilities of the Speel District among the four districts authorized the Appleton Board of Education to dispose of the building and contents in the most feasible manner.

One-half the land reverts to the original owner when it is no longer used for school purposes, and the apportionment board reached an agreement to sell the other half. The original owner does not want the school building, and it will have to be moved.

The proceeds of the auction will be divided among the four districts on a percentage basis, with Appleton to receive 12 per cent.

Airlines Would Serve if Facilities are Available

The new Outagamie County airport could be the only one in the Fox River Valley with jet service if the new airport is built right now, Arthur E. Mueller, board chairman of North Central Airlines, suggested today.

Mueller told the Green Bay Downtown Kiwanis Club Monday that only one Fox River Valley airport would be served by jets when the airlines converts to the new planes in the next two to four years.

He said this morning that Appleton is the best geographical location and the best traffic generator for the sole jet-service airline in the valley.

"But Green Bay has the jump on Appleton in facilities," he said. He said Outagamie County had better hurry its efforts to build a new airport if it wants to close the gap.

The Winnebago County Airport at Oshkosh never was mentioned.

Tedious Hearing

Mueller emphasized that the Civil Aeronautics Board would make the decision on which airport will be served by jets. He said the CAB will hold a "long, tedious" hearing on the matter. "All cities will have a chance to be heard," he added.

He predicted that three considerations would temper the CAB's decision: the state of the airport facilities, geographic location and market potential.

"A lot of it will depend on the facilities," he said. After suggesting a stepped up effort for better facilities at Appleton, he said, "We certainly like the enthusiasm that Appleton has expressed."

Three Models

Mueller said the airline now is considering three models of small jets. They will be put into service anytime between late 1964 and early 1965, he said. The airline definitely will bypass any use of turbo-jets, the truck, but was caught as it he said.

When the change to jets comes, only five cities in Wisconsin will be served by jets, he said in Green Bay Monday.

Mueller pointed out that the Civil Aeronautics Board recently

Key to Faith Is Individual's Devotional Life

Rev. Humbert Says Reading of Bible Gives Confidence

"The key to a positive faith is in the matter of the devotional life of the individual," the Rev. Harold P. Humbert told his congregation at the First Baptist Church Sunday. "When there is a wholesome consistent devotional period of time in our lives, it will give us the assurance we need in our witness for Christ."

The early church spread the Christian faith rapidly because of the vitality of the ordinary members of the congregations, the so-called laymen in our 20th century terminology, he said.

If a modern-day persecution forced you to flee for your lives, would you know enough of the Bible to preach the word of God wherever you went, and would you have the courage to do so, he asked.

Courage of Ordinary Members "A study of church history will reveal that all of the great forward movements of the church have been possible because of the courage and faith of the ordinary members of the church," he went on.

"When people have confidence and an assurance of their knowledge of God they will attempt to do the work of God," he said. "There is nothing that has slowed the expansion of the Christian faith to the whole world more than the present lack of inner confidence among many good Christians people."

"A properly developed personal devotional experience will help us to know what we believe, why we believe it, and inspire us to talk about our faith whenever we have the opportunity," he said.

3 Areas of Help

Pastor Humbert listed three areas where the devotional life will help with confidence in faith: "1. It will increase our knowledge of the Bible; 2. it will inspire us to action, and 3. the devotional experience will give us cleanliness of soul for a healthy boldness of faith."

Daily reading of the Bible will increase your knowledge of your faith and give you confidence to share it with others, he said. "Many a sermon preached in this fashion over a cup of coffee has been instrumental in leading others to know and love Christ."

"For the Christian the inspiration in life comes from the feeling that God is speaking to us and directing us to engage in certain tasks," he continued. Sometimes the best way a pastor can help his people to know the Bible is to encourage them in general reading rather than giving specific answers to specific questions so that they will find ideas from the Bible themselves.

Tell Innermost Secrets

"The devotional life gives us an opportunity to talk about our innermost secrets with someone, that someone being God," Pastor Humbert went on. "I believe God has raised up in this 20th century psychologists and psychiatrists to meet our emotional needs just as surely as He has given us the surgeon who can remove or repair injured organs of our bodies. "Yet I also firmly believe that the person who has a good healthy devotional life will have less need for the psychologist. For all of their skill, these men lice this week and last week each contained a set of keys which were identified as not being the owner's keys.

A late model Pontiac car which two persons described as teenagers, attempted to back out of a Menasha parking lot last Wednesday but hit another car in the process, may be connected to the other stolen cars, police said. The description of the two persons seen in the Pontiac matched that of persons suspected of stealing the two Chevrolet cars.

40 Sets Taken

About 40 sets of car keys, some which would be interchangeable with other Chevrolet cars, were taken July 31 from the Gibson Used Car lot, 935 W. Wisconsin Ave., when that lot was vandalized.

Eight sets of the keys were found along the shoreline of the Fox River near Lutz Park where a 1966 Chevrolet was rolled into the water. The car had been taken from the Gibson lot by the vandals.

An official at the Gibson lot Monday told detectives that the two sets of keys found in the Menasha stolen car "could have come from this lot." Police and used car lot officials checked about 20 cars on the lot Monday, but the two keys did not fit any of them. Some of the cars which were vandalized have been moved to other lots, are being repaired or have been sold, officials said, so it would be impossible to match the keys with all the cars which were on the lot on the night of July 31.

Other Complaints

Meanwhile, police were checking other vandalism complaints including one received from Outagamie County Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer who told police his car's gasoline cap and a 20 inch piece of chrome was pulled from his car Monday while it was parked in the 400 block of W Sixth Street.

Police found that the gasoline did not contain any sand, sugar or any other foreign matter. The Robinhood Dress Shop, 208 E. College Ave., reported that someone had defaced a sign on the rear of the store, using black marking pencil. Police said the work may have been done by a relatively unknown youth gang known as the "Vampires."

Appleton Man's Car Crashes Into Island On College Avenue

A 27-year-old Appleton man who crashed into a safety island on W. College Ave., Sunday afternoon was fined $200 and court costs and lost his driver's license for one year after he pleaded guilty Monday to drunken driving.

Alvin J. Wolff, 317 N. Appleton St., was arrested Sunday by Appleton police when the car he was driving struck the safety island in the 600 block of W. College Ave. One of the car tires was flattened in the accident and the car was towed to the station.

Wolff was examined by a doctor at the police station and tested on the drunkometer. A test of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication. He was held overnight.

basically help us to think honestly about ourselves and our relationships to others. As we talk with God we can go through the same process and God can guide us to correct thinking spiritually and emotionally."

"When we regularly expose our thoughts to ourselves and to God in a wholesome way, God can do something to help us," he said. "The non-Christian who cannot pray and the Christian who does not pray are both cut off from the source of real spiritual help from the Great Physician."

"The devotional life has at least three great values for us," Pastor Humbert concluded. "1. It will increase our familiarity and thus our use of Scripture; 2. it will inspire us to live and work at the command of God; 3. it will free us of the enslaving characteristics of fear and guilt. In this way we can become people of strength and give a good witness to our world at all times."

Quincy Nips Foxes In 12 Innings, 1-0

Packers' First Change Will Probably be in Defensive Secondary

Herb Adderley Working as Regular; John Symank Says, 'It's Early Yet'

BY ART DALEY Post-Crescent News Service DALLAS—The first change in the alignment of the world champion Packers of 1962 is in progress.

This is in the club's defensive secondary which last year was composed of Jess Whitenton and Hank Gremminger at corner backers, and Willie Wood and John Symank as safetymen. Jess and Hank were on the right side, Willie and John on the left.

Each of these guys intercepted five passes in the process of helping the club win the world title. But that was a year ago. Since the fourth quarter of the College All-Star game, sophomore Herb Adderley has moved into left corner-back and Gremminger in turn shifted back into Symank's position. The change was made after the All-Stars scored one aerial touchdown and completed two passes through John's area.

Right Safety The changed foursome went most of the way against the Cowboys, exchanging with a unit composed of Adderley and Howard Williams at the corners and Symank and Paul Dudley at safety. Symank is back at right safety in this group, where he played in 1960.

'More Traffic' Gremminger finds the safety spot to "my liking. It's harder to play the corner because there's more traffic."

Hank never played safety with the Packers. The former Baylor came into pro football in 1956 as an offensive end but was switched to defense as a rookie. He has been the club's regular corner-backer the last five years.

Bill St. Peter Decided On By Killeen

QUINCY, Ill. — The Quincy Jets snapped the Fox Cities Foxes' winning streak at four games Monday night by taking a 1-0 Midwest League decision in a 12-inning thriller.

Bill St. Peter, of the Foxes, and Evans Killeen, of the Jets, hooked up in the tense mound duel. Killeen, who came to Quincy about three weeks ago from Syracuse, a Triple A team in the International League, racked up his fourth straight victory and fanned 18 Foxes in the process.

Tonight the Foxes and Jets will wind up their 4-game series with another single game. Beats Out Hit Dick Martin opened the 12th by beating out an infield roller between short and third for a single. Jim Lange sacrificed Martin to second and Ron Linnartz was walked intentionally to set up a possible double play. Larry Boerschig came through with a clean single to right and Martin scored.

Main threat for the Foxes came in the seventh when John Scruggs walked with two out and stole second. Rex Peters dropped a short single over the infield and Scruggs moved to third. But Bob Lewandowski struck out. Killeen managed to strike out every Foxes batter, except Peters, at least once. Killeen struck out the side in the fourth and had at least one strikeout in each inning.

Peters was the most effective of the Foxes as he batted out three of the team's six hits, all singles. Quincy threatened in the 10th when Jim Burnett led off with a long triple. St. Peter bore down and fanned Linnartz, gave Boerschig an intentional pass and then got out of trouble when the Foxes clicked off a double play, their second of the game.

O'Toole Humbles Braves as Reds Run Win Streak to 9

Jim Hurls Perfect Ball for 6 Innings; Robinson Homers

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves are still searching for the key to success in handling the National League's first division clubs.

They tangled with third-place Cincinnati Monday night and nothing went right as the Reds took a 10-2 victory. Red starter Jim O'Toole kept a bid for a perfect game going through six innings and the Cincinnati batters hammered three Milwaukee hurlers for 11 hits, including a grand slam homer by Frank Robinson.

The victory was the ninth in a row for the Reds and lifted them to within six and a half games of league-leading Los Angeles, idle Monday night as was the rest of the league. The sixth-place Braves, 16 games out of first, fell two and a half games back in their bid to get into the first division by overhauling the St. Louis Cardinals.

Takes Ninth Loss Milwaukee starter Bob Hendley was picked for six of the Reds runs and took the loss, leaving him with an 8 and 9 record. The Reds started to work on Hendley in the first inning as Eddie Kasko singled and Robinson walked. They scored on a long double by Don Pavletich.

A walk, a force out, a double and another walk put a Red on every base in the fifth before Robinson connected for his grand slam, his second of 1962 and his 27th homer of the year. The Reds added four more in the seventh. Cardenas ran all the way to third when Eddie Mathews threw his grounder high over first. Successive doubles by Kasko and Robinson added two runs. Pinson sent in a run each.

O'Toole, who went the distance for his 13th victory in 25 decisions, retired 18 Milwaukee batters in succession before Roy McMillan reached first on Kasko's throwing error in the seventh. The 25-year-old lefty then gave

Dodgers Open Series Against Bucs Tonight

BY JIM BECKER Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds have been written off more times in the National League than the first World War debt.

But they won't go away. It was standard practice all last year, and the first thing you knew they were in the World Series. They weren't picked to repeat as NL champion this year when slugging third baseman Gene Eeese broke his ankle in spring training.

They were written off after a sluggish start. And again when they blew three straight to the San Francisco Giants in June. And again when they dropped three in a row to, of all people, the lowly New York Mets, on Aug. 4-5.

So the Reds won their ninth straight Monday night, 10-2, over the Milwaukee Braves, and here they are again, in third place 6½ games back of the first place Los Angeles Dodgers.

Dodgers Idle The Dodgers were idle Monday, as were the Giants, who are 2½ games off the pace, and the rest of the league. The win gave the Reds a good start on their week of decision. They meet the Braves three more times, and then play the Dodgers four games at home. The Reds have a season edge, 6-5, over the Dodgers, the only club in the league with that distinction.

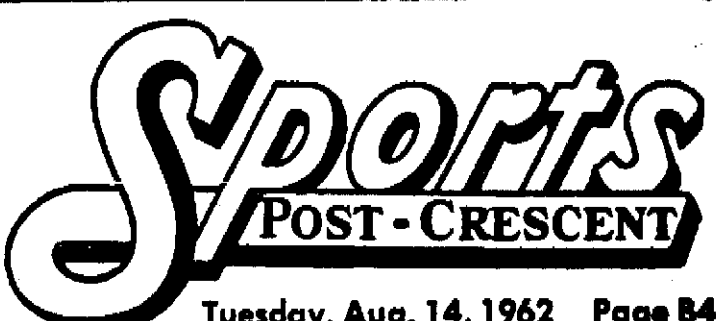

The Dodgers open a three game set at Pittsburgh tonight, with Johnny Podres (9-8) slated to go against the Pirates' Al McBean (11-8).

The Giants, with Jack Sanford (15-6) open a three-game series against the Chicago Cubs, who will start Glenn Hobbie (4-11). After the Cub series the Giants move to Milwaukee for four games.

Angelo Dabiero Quits Boston Patriot Camp

ANDOVER, Mass. (AP) — Half-back Angelo Dabiero, former Notre Dame back, left the Boston Patriots AFL camp Monday with the announcement he is going to give up football.

Dabiero said he is returning to South Bend, Ind., and hopes to fulfill a childhood ambition of becoming a teacher-coach.

Harry Bright's Pair of 3-Run Homers Paces Senators to 2 Wins

Minnesota Cuts Yankee Lead With 6-4 Win

BY MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

Can a Senator overrule a General?

Harry Bright has taken the first step toward tackling the ticklish problem.

Responding to a pep talk pre-empted by the General's displeasure with his forces, Bright unleashed a home run salvo Monday night that carried Washington's last-place Senators to a doubleheader sweep over Cleveland, 11-2 and 3-2, the American League.

It all started Sunday when General Elwood (Pete) Quesada, president of the Senators, indicated the ax was being sharpened for General Manager Ed Doherty and Manager Mickey Vernon, his chief lieutenants since the club entered the AL as a new member in 1961.

Said the general: "Prudent thought dictates some major changes in the organization. I have no intention of firing anybody at this time. But again, I don't deny the possibility that changes could be made."

Grumbling Senators When Doherty arrived in Cleveland, he was confronted with a bunch of grumbling Senators. He decided on the pep talk method to close ranks, and referring to the Sunday announcement, told the players before the game: "Just because you don't like what's happened is no reason to quit trying." The Senators didn't. They pounded out 16 hits in the first game triumph, including a three-run homer by Bright, then won the nightcap when Bright tagged another three-run shot in the ninth inning. Meanwhile, the second-place Los Angeles Angels closed within 4½ games of league-leading New York by beating Boston 9-1 behind Ted Bowsfield's five-hit pitching while third-place Minnesota knocked off the Yankees 6-4 on Harmon Killebrew's three-run double in the eighth.

Lock Homers Bright got the Senators off to a 3-0 lead against Indians' starter Dick Donovan (15-6) in the opener. Don Lock tagged a three-run shot in the sixth and the Senators continued to pile it on. Jim Han-nan (2-2) needed Ed Hobaugh's relief help to get the victory. The

Rosters of Both NFL, AFL Teams Dotted With Former Track Stars

BY JACK CLARY Associated Press Sports Writer

Old track stars never say die—they become pro football players.

Or so it would seem glancing through the rosters of the National and American Football League teams now engaged in pre-season training. There are seven of Uncle Sam's top stars during the past three years now engaged in the much rougher business of professional football, and an eighth, Charlie Tidwell of Kansas, was cut a week ago by the NFL's Minnesota Vikings.

Ted Woods, the 1960 NCAA 400-meter champion and a member of the U.S. Olympic team, became the latest to sign when he agreed to terms Monday with the San Francisco 49ers, who drafted him fifth last year.

Woods, who played at the University of Colorado, joins fellow Olympian Ray Norton on the 49ers, and UCLA track star Jim Johnson. The 49ers also had drafted Johnson's brother, Raler, the Olympic decathlon star two years ago, but he declined the offer.

'Zephyr' Offense Another '60 Olympian, Glenn Davis, is with the Detroit Lions, who last year set up their "Zephyr" offense to take advantage of his great speed. Davis starred at Ohio State.

The most notable graduate of the track world trying to make it in pro football, of course, is Frank Budd, co-holder of the world 100-yard dash mark of 9.2 seconds. He is a flanker back with the Philadelphia Eagles. Although he had no collegiate experience while at Villanova University, he was an all-state player for Ashbury Park (N.J.) High School, performing at tailback.

Another top trackman in football training is Texas Southern's Charlie Frazier, with Houston of the AFL. He was a member of the U.S. 400-meter team that set a world record in 1961 in Moscow in a U.S.-U.S.S.R. meet. The AFL's Denver Broncos have Jerry Tarr, top U.S. hurdler this past year while at Oregon. He was their No. 17 draft choice.

Both are halfbacks. The 49ers may need Wood. He came on a day when veteran half-back Don McIlhenny, a 7-year NFL veteran, announced his retirement. Wood had been released by Vancouver of the Canadian League before signing with San Francisco.

Backfield Unsettled The Cleveland Browns, whose backfield personnel is still unsettled with the loss of rookie Al-Ameria Ernie Davis and the trade of veterans Bobby Mitchell, Milt Plum and Tom Watkins, obtained Ernest Green, a rookie back, from Green Bay Monday. The pick for the University of Louisville back cost the Browns a future draft choice.

The rest of the clubs were still licking their wounds from the weekend exhibition action. New York lost rookie end Lou Kiriouac of Boston College with a broken leg, and also had rookie tackle Bob Bill, rookie back Joe Taylor, and Joe Walton and halfback Frank Gifford banged up after a 21-21 tie against St. Louis. The Baltimore Colts lost rookie back Jerry Hill for at least two months with a fractured left leg and fullback Mark Smolinski for two weeks with a sprained left knee.

Rookie fullback Ronnie Bull of the Chicago Bears, out with a virus, and end Angelo Coia will sit out Saturday's exhibition against the Eagles. Coia has a broken collarbone.

Linebacker Bob Schnitz, with a mild concussion, and end Harlan Hill, with a muscle pull, are not expected to play for Pittsburgh Saturday night against Cleveland in the second game of an exhibition doubleheader at Cleveland. Dallas, playing Detroit in the opener, will be without halfback Don Perkins (ankle) and tackle Don Healy (foot).

The Dallas Texans of the AFL got linebacker Sherrill Headrick back from the injury list but lost defensive tackle Paul Rochester to the Army for two weeks of training.

Green Bay Sophs Pushing Veterans

Lombardi Growing Restless, Says Scope of Trading Not Restrictive

DALLAS (AP)—There is no forced to give up should help rest in the Green Bay Packers somebody else.

The Packers are spending the week here, preparing for their third exhibition start, against the St. Louis Cardinals in Jacksonville, Fla., on Saturday night.

Winners of both exhibition starts, the Packers held their second workout Monday since the 31-7 victory over the Dallas Cowboys Friday night.

In a move to beat the heat, Lombardi shifted the workout to 10 a.m. instead of holding it in the afternoon as planned. It was 90 degrees when the drill started, but the spartan Lombardi suggested, "This isn't so bad."

And because of competition for jobs with the NFL champions, the players probably agreed. Action centered on the pass attack.

The most improved second-year men are linebacker Neilson and defensive tackle Ron Kostelnik. Others who fall into the same classification because of the action they've seen are Herb Adderley and Elijah Pitts.

Matures Rapidly

Toburen 6-foot-3 and 235 pounds has matured rapidly and made easier Lombardi's decision to trade veteran Tom Bettis. The 6-foot-4 Kostelnik, a staunch 260 pounds, eventually will take the place of the 32-year-old Dave Hanner.

Fresh out of the Army, Pitts, who said he stayed in shape by joining the Ft. Leonard Wood track team, has played in both exhibition, and scored in each. He's the fleet backfield contrast to the hard running Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung.

Halfback Adderley, shifted from offense to defense, got a chance to start last Friday. The maneuvering to get him into the lineup left veteran safety man Johnny Symank without a place to play.

Other valuable sophomores who are finding it hard to get into the game are offensive end Lee Folkins and defensive end Ben Davidson, the biggest man on the squad at 6-foot-8, 275 pounds. Folkins, who has been napping with the kickoff and punt unit, would have to replace Ron Kramer and Davidson would have to get past all-pro Willie Davis.

Then there are the rookies, with the first four choices this year most likely to stay through September's final cut. They are, in order, fullback Earl Grey, guard Ed Blaine, end Gary Barnes and tackle Ron Gassett.

When the Packers break the logjam, some of the other NFL teams will be stronger.

Carl Kalbus pitched a 4-hitter for New London. New London scored four times in the fourth inning on a 2-run single by Pete Schlise and 2-run single by Bob Kroll. The final two runs were scored in the seventh on a single by Mel Myers.

Kalbus walked three while striking out six. Bob Weller, the losing pitcher, struck out four and walked two.

Greenville held a 3-0 lead going into the bottom of the seventh when Weyauwega scored five runs on four hits and two errors.

Whitney Reed Ousted by Young Netter

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Jim Parker, unheralded 19-year-old St. Louis player ousted Whitney Reed, the Nation's No. 1 ranking player, in straight sets 6-5, 6-4 in the opening round of the annual Newport Casino International Lawn Tennis Tournament Monday.

Parker's relentless retrieving had enthusiastic gallery support as he continually forced the weary Reed into numerous errors. Reed, the tournament's No. 2 seed, was in serious trouble from the outset.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dodge dently designed to offset the General Manager Buzze Bavi's plans a formal protest over the dredging of base paths just before weekend games with the San Francisco Giants at Candlestick Park, the Herald Examiner said Monday.

The newspaper quoted Bavi as saying the dredging was "a waste of money." Bavi said the Giants did not want to watch, wasn't it? I guess Horace Stoneham just wants to win. He doesn't care how.

"I'm not blaming the field because the Dodgers were beaten three times. The Giant players beat us. They were better than us for that series. But as for dredging the field, it was disgraceful. We even have letters from San Francisco in which fans

Harry Bright Paces Nats to Double Win

Indians led the nightcap 2-0 with Barry Latman (4-10) pitching a two-hit shutout until the last inning when two walks and Bright's second three-run homer gave the Senators another victory. The winner was reliever Marty Kutyna (4-6).

Bowfield (8-5), going the distance for the first time this season, had the Red Sox blanked on three hits until the ninth when Ed Bressoud tripled and Frank Malone singled.

Singles by Lee Thomas, Leon Wagner and Bob Rodgers gave the Angels a 1-0 lead in the first. They made it 2-0 in the third on singles by Billy Moran and Wagner, then broke it open with three in the seventh on a walk and singles by Albie Pearson, Moran and Lee Thomas. The loser was Gene Conley (10-11).

Killebrew was the big gun for the Twins, going 4-for-5 against the Yankees and smashing a sinking liner with the bases loaded and two out in the eighth inning that eluded Tony Kubek and accounted for the winning runs. Killebrew drove in five runs, moving into the league RBI lead with 85. The Yankees had tied it in the seventh on Roger Maris' run-scoring single and moved in front in the eighth on Clete Boyer's run-producing single. Ray Moore (8-3) won it in relief with Bud Daley (5-3) taking the loss.

Gene Freese Placed on Active List

CINCINNATI (AP)—Gene Freese, whose home run bat has been missed by the Cincinnati Reds this year, was back on the active list today for his first time this season, but manager Fred Hutchinson does not know when he will put him into the lineup.

"I can't say I will use him when I think he can help us. I have no plans for him now," was all the Reds' manager would say.

The veteran third baseman, who hit 26 homers last year, broke his right ankle March 5 while sliding in spring training.

The Reds, who sold pitcher Moe Drabowsky to Kansas City in the American League to make room for Freese, could use his hitting power in their belated drive for a second straight NL pennant.

Owner Disgusted Busch Would Trade 'Just About Everybody'

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis Cardinal owner August A. (Gussie) Busch Jr. said today he's disgusted with his fifth-place Redbirds and is ready to shake up the club with trades. Even the top brass may be in jeopardy.

Now in his 10th year as head of the National League club he bought from Fred M. Saigh, Busch and his organization have spent 10 million dollars in ballpark improvements and purchase in talent. The result: no pennants, one second place finish and two thirds.

"As far as I'm concerned," the 61-year-old sportsman declared, "I'm at the point where I'd trade just about everybody."

Although Busch didn't say so, the "just about everybody" apparently excluded Stan "The Man" Musial, the 41-year-old veteran who holds many major league records and may win his eighth NL batting crown this season.

Busch indicated the front office may be in trouble. He spelled it out, "All my advisers," and named General Manager Bing Devine, chief of player procurement Walter Shannon and trouble shooter Eddie Stanky.

Only Manager Johnny Keane escaped Busch's anger. "I can't blame him," Busch said. "In fact, I blame him less than anyone else."

It was pointed out Keane is the Cardinals' seventh manager in 12 years and Busch agreed, "Yes, we have to exercise more patience on that score."

The owner cautioned, "We haven't reached any conclusions yet. We're calling meeting after meeting and there will be many more meetings."

Busch said the club had become complacent. He issued this warning: "They're going to be a hungry club, or there won't be anybody around next spring. I'm so disgusted I can hardly think straight."

Adderley Plays Regularly In Secondary

game at Detroit last Thanksgiving Day. Gremminger was hurt and Adderley, with only a few days practice, went in and played the spot skillfully. He made an interception that set up the Bays' winning touchdown.

Herb said he never played "that particular position until he came to Green Bay. We played three deep in school and I was the middle safety. It's hard up there at the corner. You only have two or three seconds to make up your mind whether to come up and make a tackle or go back for the pass."

More: pered Norb Hecker, coach of the defensive backfield, said the new combination gives the secondary more speed.

The foursome will receive a stern test the next time out when the Packers met the Cardinals in Jacksonville, Fla., Saturday night. Gremminger and Adderley will be looking at Sonny Randle, one of the league's top receivers, and Bobby Joe Conrad most of the night. And Adderley will be tackling powerful John Crow just about the time he's getting up a head of steam.

Hank Sturm, coach of the Dallas Texans of the rival American Football League, watched the Packers practice Monday and chatted with Lombardi after the morning workout. Packer drills were switched to the morning to escape the afternoon heat. The Texans, who are conducting "spring" training here, work late in the afternoon.

Stram asked how his team (the rival Cowboys drill at Marquette, Mich.) takes the heat felt that "It's not hard after you get used to it. We don't have any complaints and it does the squad a lot of good training in their home city."

Rumors had popped recently about the Texans moving to New Orleans but Stram said that "many cities would like pro-football franchises. It's not good having two teams in Dallas. The fans will decide which team they want here. The team that has the best attendance in the next few years will stay here; the other will have to move."

The Packers slowed down traffic on busy Muckbird Lane during their drill on the SMU field. More than 300 gathered to watch a champ in action.

Reds' O'Toole Stops Braves up singles to Mathews, Lou Johnson and Henry Aaron before getting the side out. Only McMillan scored.

A double by Johnson and Mathews' single and Aaron's double produced Milwaukee's final run in the ninth.

The Braves finished with six hits but O'Toole was clearly their master. He fanned 12 and didn't give up a walk. It was O'Toole's best performance since July 23 when he pitched a 3-0 one-hitter and had a perfect game going against the Pittsburgh Pirates until Bob Skinner doubled with two out in the eighth.

Tony Cloninger, 32, faces Joe Nuxhall 2-0, or Jim Maloney, 6-4, in tonight's game.

Board Refuses to Rezone Lake Site

County Land Won't be Used As Winnebago Access Park

OSHKOSH — The issue of whether there were already 10 access points between Oshkosh and Neenah. "Isn't That Enough?" asked this morning with the Winnebago County Board voting 31 to 18 against rezoning a piece of county-owned land from residential to recreational.

The decision was met with applause by about 50 people who attended the public hearing and opposed the change.

The county purchased the land, which has 200 feet of lake frontage in the Town of Vinland, last spring from John Grundman for $13,000.

The county zoning committee also opposed the rezoning.

Several spokesmen, including Neenah Atty. Jerome Bomier, who was representing three property owners, and Oshkosh Atty. Lewis Magnusen, representing the Town of Vinland, voiced strenuous objections to the proposed lake access site for boat launchings.

Richard Harris, Wisconsin Conservation Department, and Grundman, former owner of the property, were the only spokesmen in favor of the rezoning.

Bomier said residents of the area had purchased land and built homes with the thought it would stay residential. This would represent spot zoning, Bomier said, and that is very dangerous.

The people do not want this, Magnusen said. "Why doesn't the county board respect the wishes of the Town of Vinland and the people?" he asked.

Henry Kohfeldt, who owns property on Robinson's Bay, said,

"I don't want to see this area rezoned. It's a beautiful area and it should stay residential."

OSHKOSH — The four judges serving Winnebago County Monday afternoon named Silas L. Spengler of Menasha as family court commissioner. He succeeds the late William H. Gengler of Oshkosh who died last week after serving two months in that office.

The post formerly was held by James Sarres who became judge of Branch 2 of the County Court on June 1.

Spengler served as Menasha city attorney from 1946 to 1954 and was city attorney for both Neenah and Menasha in the 1920's.

Former Board Chairman He also had served as a member of the Winnebago County Board and at one time had been its chairman. He also had served as municipal judge during the 1930's.

Duties of the family court commissioner are to meet with persons seeking a divorce and to make recommendations to the court. The family court commissioner also seeks to obtain payment of arrearages in child support and alimony payments which have been ordered when these payments become delinquent.

'Free Schooling' Jeopardized, Some Say

Menasha School Board Hikes Book Rental Fee

MENASHA — New and higher gram, with one-hour meetings be-book rental fees were adopted ginning at 3:30 p.m. the first Monday by the Board of Education of each month, was ap- tion, although several members proved for all teachers. Suggest- had reservations about the idea.

Fees will be $2 for kindergarten children and $6.50 for all from grades 1 to 12. Present rates are $1.75 in kindergarten, $5.25 to $7.25 in grades 1 to 6, and $5 in junior and senior high school.

The policy study, said Supt. of Schools M. J. Gegan, showed that texts are used over five-year periods.

Thomas Woodrow said "we have statutory authority to provide texts at no charge. If it works hardship, I'm not in favor of charges. Otherwise it can help meet rising costs of the school district."

Gegan reminded that it is a matter of budget philosophy. "How far do you go in charging back costs? Should it be part of the tax structure?"

"Think Differently"

Roberts said "the premise of a public school is access to education regardless of ability to pay. As school boards come and go, they think differently."

Frank Rosch favored no fee in elementary school. "We get back to the premise of free schooling. If we keep doing this, where do you stop? Without books, where's free education?"

A new in-service training program proposed the program.
